The Repentance of Compassion and Enlightenment Path

(“Liang Huang Repentance”)

Chapter Thirty-Eight: The Dharma Method of Bodhisattva’s Transference

In today’s Dharma assembly, we, who have common karma, with hard working and strenuous effort, have cultivated boundless meritorious deeds. Everyone should give rise to such thought that all such meritorious deeds should benefit all sentient beings and help them realize the ultimate purity. Through transferring the merits from our repentance, we wish that all sentient beings will no longer have to go through the boundless sufferings and affliction resulting from being born in the destinies of the hell, hungry ghost, animal, or King Mara.

We hope that the merits from this repentance would provide shelter for all sentient beings from the suffering of the five aggregates and afflictions. We hope that it can also serve as the great refuge for the sentient beings in horror so they can cease to fear and attain supreme wisdom. We hope that it can provide safe harbor for all sentient beings so they can obtain ultimate peace, serve as light of wisdom to diminish darkness of ignorance and all will achieve ultimate purity, and provide the guidance to all sentient beings through various expediency for them to obtain the pure wisdom.

In today’s Dharma assembly, we, who have common karma, employed the same method that the Bodhisattvas and the Mahasattvas use to transfer their meritorious deeds to both their enemies and loved ones because the Bodhisattvas have compassion for all sentient beings and treat all equally and without discrimination. If there is any sentient beings who loathes Bodhisattvas, and has heinous evil intentions, the Bodhisattvas would expound the profound Dharma to purify and calm their mind. It is like no poison can contaminate the ocean and it’s the same for the Bodhisattvas. Although some sentient beings, with ignorance and stupidity, not only do not try to replay Bodhisattvas’ kindness but give rise to infinite evil intentions, they can not deter Bodhisattva’s determination. Just as the bright sun shines on everyone, even the ones with no eyesight, so are the Bodhisattvas’ compassion and determination.

The Bodhisattvas do not retreat because there is evilness, and they do not stop cultivating virtuous deeds because sentient beings are hard to transform. They have pure and deep faith in the virtuous deeds and encompass endless compassion. The Bodhisattvas sincerely transfer the merits of their virtuous deeds to all sentient beings. The Bodhisattvas treat all sentient beings with heart of happiness and joy, purity, tenderness, mercy, compassion, loving care, acceptance, benefiting, peace, and of most profoundness. Following the example of the Bodhisattvas and the Mahasattvas making such transference of their merits, we also like to do the same.

In our mind as well as speaking with mouth, we like to transfer all our merits and virtues to all sentient beings so they can be born in the pure destinies with pure life and they will cultivate and accomplish all merits and virtues in this world that cannot be destroyed. All will have unlimited wisdom. With dignified deeds of body, speech, and mind, everyone will be able to meet the Buddhas, and will listen and accept their teaching of true dharma with unobstructed faith. After listening to the Buddha’s teaching, they will no longer have any doubts or delusion and will always remember to purify their actions of the body, speech, and mind, and cultivate the most supreme meritorious deeds. They will never be destitute and always have the seven fortunes and, through the merits accumulated from learning and applying the teaching of all Bodhisattvas, they will attain the supreme liberation and equanimity. They will always be compassionate toward all sentient beings and they will always be born with pure body, eloquence and persuasiveness. They will always give rise to good intention without defilements and they will learn the profound truth and be able to teach and transform all sentient beings so all can attain buddhahood. We like our transference to be like that of the Bodhisattvas and the Mahasattvas that they are as vast as the dharma nature and as ultimate as the vast space. We pray that all our bodhi resolve will be fulfilled and so are the resolves of all sentient beings in the four forms of existence in six destinies. Again, we sincerely prostrate to and take refuge in the following world's most compassionate ones:

Again, we take refuge in the triple gems in the ten directions and in all space. We request that their kindness and compassion will embrace all sentient beings to whom the merits are transferred and help them fulfill their wishes.

For those sentient beings who have committed countless offenses and should receive countless suffering as retributions in the evil destinies and they break the Bodhi resolve they made today, or they deviate from the Bodhi path or go astray from their Bodhi vow, we request that the Bodhisattvas and all holy sages of the ten directions, based on their kindness and compassion and their original vow, will help these sentient beings in the three evil destinies to be liberated.

We also request that the Bodhisattvas would not give up on us and help us unload all burdens and non-discriminately liberate all sentient beings from the sufferings of birth, aging, sickness, death, worries, and countless difficulties and disasters and that they will all be purified and accomplish all virtuous deeds and achieve the ultimate liberation. All will abandon and leave behind all evil attachments and afflictions, friends with bad influence, and will make friends with benevolent and virtuous ones and they will only have the pure karma and completely eliminate all sufferings, and bring forth the same resolves as those of all the Bodhisattvas, be joyful when seeing the Buddha (by understanding the truth), obtain the true wisdom and will return to liberate all other sentient beings.

Chapter Thirty-Nine: Making Wishes

In today's Dharma assembly, we, who have common karma, after making transference of our will, next make the following vows: As all the offenses originate from the six sense organs, we should realize that they are the foundations of all troubles. Although six sense organs may be the origin of all offenses, they can also be used to create boundless good karmas. The Shen-Mon sutra states that by guarding the six sense organs, and purifying our actions of our body, speech, and mind, we can prove that they are the roots of virtuous deeds. Therefore, we will make vows in regard to the six sense organs.

Making the Wishes in Regard to the Eyes

We wish that, starting from now until we attain enlightenment, everyone in today's dharma assembly, all sentient beings in the four forms of births and six paths of reincarnation will not see the deeds of greed and desire, discontentment and tricks to get what one desires. They will not see the acts of slandering and excessive flattering and will not see the distracting colors of blue, yellow, red, and purple. They will not see the ugly sights of anger, hatred, debates, and arguments, nor will they see the fights that do harm to others. They will not see the acts of slaughter and killing of sentient beings or the sights of stupidity, betrayal and distrust. They will not see acts of shamelessness, disrespect, and arrogance or the sight of any of the ninety-six deviant views.

May all sentient beings have the following from now on: the shiny colors of eternally abiding Dharma body in the ten directions; the purplish-golden colors of the Buddha's body with thirty-two major marks and eighty minor marks; the divine beings and immortals presenting precious treasures and flowers to the Buddhas; and the light in five colors emitting from the mouth of those who expound Dharma to help liberate other sentient beings; the transformation bodies of the Buddhas and Bodhisattvas appearing everywhere in the ten directions; and the light radiating from the top of the Buddhas' heads at various encounters by those who have the affinity to meet the Buddhas.

May they often get to see the Bodhisattvas, Pratyekabuddhas, Arhats and all sages in the ten directions and, accompanied by all sentient beings and their relatives, get to see the Buddhas. May they also get to see the good deeds, the pure flowers of seven awakening, the wonderful fruition of liberation, the joy of all the ones attending today's dharma assembly from appreciating the Dharma heard and respectfully accepting the teaching, May they also see all the practices of generosity, patience, rigorous cultivation, quietness, meditation, and cultivation of wisdom, the sight of the joy of all sentient beings attaining the realization of non-arising and non-extinction and when they are certified by the Buddhas that they will attain enlightenment, the sight of all acquiring the unobstructed wisdom and of all eradicating of the darkness caused by ignorance, and be the next to become a Buddha, and the sight of all sentient beings enjoying themselves in the stream of dharma teaching.

Now that we have made the wishes in regard to the eyes, with utmost sincerity, together, we prostrate to take refuge in the world's most compassionate ones:

*[Get up and prostrate while chanting Buddha names:
Page 13 – Lines 3 to 13 in Chinese/pinyin text]*

Once again, we take refuge in the triple gems of all directions and all spaces. We pray that, with their kindness compassion, they will help us fulfilling our wishes and accomplishing our vow to attain enlightenment.

Making the wishes in regard to our ears

Next, we wish that, starting from now until enlightenment is attained, everyone in today's dharma assembly, all sentient beings in the four forms of births and six paths of reincarnation will not hear the sound of crying due to suffering and afflictions, the sound of suffering from the Uninterrupted Hell, the sound of loud rumbling sound of boiling water in the hells, the sound of the sentient beings being torn by the mountains of knives, trees of swords, the sound of endless suffering from the eighteen levels of hells. May they not hear the sound of suffering from the hungry ghosts being constantly hungry and thirsty but not able to take any food, nor the sound from the burning joints of the hungry ghosts as loud as the sound of five hundred carriages rolling, the sound of suffering from those who are born in the animal realms with their body as huge as the five yojanas (very long distance) constantly being bitten by little worms, or the sound of suffering from those who are born as camels, mules and horses because they escaped from paying their debts (in previous lives) that having to carry heavy loads all the time and are being beaten.

May we not hear the sound of the eight kinds of suffering which include being separated from our loved ones, always encountering despised persons, etc. May we not hear the sound of suffering from the retribution of four hundred and four sicknesses, the sound of any unwholesome deeds and evil offenses, nor the sound from all sorts of musical instruments that distract our minds.

May all sentient beings, from now on, always hear the eight kinds of wonderful sound of the Buddha when expounding the Dharma, the teaching of impermanence, the truth of suffering, and absence of independent self-nature in all existence. May they often hear about the eight-four thousands kinds of Paramitas (perfection in cultivation), the expedient teaching of all dharma being void of self-nature, through one sound made by all Buddhas expounding the Dharma and the sentient beings of different capability of understanding being liberated from their teaching, that all sentient beings have inherent Buddha nature to become enlightened and that the Dharma body will eternally abide in this world, about the patience and diligence of the Bodhisattvas who have achieved the tenth ground, about the realization of the non-arising (and thus non-extinction) leading to obtaining the wisdom of the Buddhas and being able to transcend the three realms (desire, no-desire, and formless realms), and about the Bodhisattvas with dharma body (possessing true insight and wisdom) entering the dharma stream, contemplating on both the mundane and the ultimate truth, with every thought embracing ten-thousand virtuous deeds.

May we always hear about the Pratyekbuddhas and Arhats in the ten directions attaining the fruition of their practices, the sound of sovereign Sakra expounding the Prajna (teaching of wisdom) to the divine beings in the heavens, the sound of the teaching by the bodhisattvas of the tenth ground, ready to be the next Buddha, expounding non-regression practice in the Tusita heaven, the fact about all good deeds will lead to Buddhahood and the sound of all Buddhas praising all the sentient beings who practice ten virtuous deeds or rejoice over others who do the virtuous deeds, and the voice of the Buddhas praising someone will soon attain Buddhahood.

Now that we have made the wishes in regard to the ears, with utmost sincerity, together, we prostrate to take refuge in the world's most compassionate ones:

Again, we take refuge in the triple gems of all directions and all space. We pray that, through their kindness and compassion, they will help us fulfilling our wishes and accomplishing our bodhi resolve (of attaining enlightenment).

Making wishes in regard to our nose

Next, we wish that, starting from now until enlightenment attained, everyone in today's dharma assembly, all sentient beings in the four forms of births and six paths of reincarnation will not smell the food made from killing sentient beings, the odor from hunting and setting fire to burn and kill other sentient beings, or the odor from steaming, boiling, frying other living beings. May we not smell the odor from the thirty-six kinds of objects made from leather, the distracting fragrance from lavish fabric and clothing. May we never smell the odor of flesh being torn and burned in the hells, the odor of the food for the hungry ghosts turned into smelly excretion and blood, the odor of smelly animals, the odor of the ulcers on the skin of the sick ones who have no one to look after them, the odor of urine and stool, or the odor from the dead body inflating, decomposing and being eaten by worms.

We pray that, from now on, all sentient beings born in the six destinies will always smell the priceless incense made from precious fragrant wood found in the worlds in the ten directions, the scent of the five-colored majestic flowers of You-Tan-Bo-Luo, the scent from the flowers and the trees in the joy garden. May we always smell of the scent that will fill the place of dharma assembly in the Tusita Heaven when the Dharma is being expounded there, the scent from the fact that there are sentient beings in the ten directions keeping the five precepts, doing ten virtuous deeds, and practicing six contemplations. May we always smell the scent of the seven kinds of expedient practices (before attaining Arhatship) and sixteen practices (related to the understanding of the four noble truths), the scents from the virtues of the Pratyekabuddhas and those with no more learning needed in the ten directions, the scent from the four accesses in the stages of the Pratyekabuddhas attaining the stage of no more outflows (no more afflictions), and the scent from the countless Bodhisattvas including the joyful bodhisattva, the defilement-eradicating bodhisattva, light-emitting bodhisattva, burning-wisdom bodhisattva, hard-to-supercede bodhisattva, appearing-in-person bodhisattva, not-moving bodhisattva, superior-wisdom bodhisattva, and dharma-cloud bodhisattva. May we always smell the scent from the Sages achieving liberation from the practices of morality, concentration and wisdom, and attaining the five-part dharma body (at the stage of no more learning) through liberated insight, the scent from the Buddhas attaining Buddhahood, the scent from the thirty-seven practices (for the attainment of enlightenment), contemplation on twelve causes and conditions, and the six perfections, the scent of the Buddha's three contemplations out of their great compassion, the ten powers possessed by the Buddha (of perfect knowledge in ten aspects), the four fearless minds of the Buddhas and Bodhisattvas (in teaching the sentient beings), eighteen distinctive characteristics of the Buddha (compared with all other beings), the scent of the eight-four thousand practices, and the scent from immeasurable number of perfect dharma bodies abiding in the ten directions.

Now that we have made the wishes in regard to our nose, with utmost sincerity, together, we prostrate to take refuge in the world's most compassionate ones:

Again, we take refuge in the triple gems of all directions an all space. We pray that, through their kindness and compassion, they will help all sentient beings fulfilling their wishes and accomplishing their bodhi resolve (to attain enlightenment).

Making vow in regard to our tongue

Next, we wish that, starting from now until enlightenment attained, everyone in today's dharma assembly, all sentient beings in the four forms of births and six paths of reincarnation will not taste the food made from killing any other sentient beings, those who die on their own, or eat any raw flesh, blood or spinal fluid from any living being, the food with poison added by those who hold strong resentment toward us, or any food that will induce greed, attachment, and affliction.

We pray that all sentient beings can always taste the flavors of hundreds kinds of delicacy, the flavors of natural drinks and foods enjoyed by the divine beings in the heavens, and the flavors of gourmet rice. May we always taste the same kind of food the Buddha had, the flavor which results from cultivating and practicing morality, concentration, and wisdom, and enjoy the blissful joy in dyana (concentrative state), the flavor of countless virtues nourishing the harmonious life of wisdom, the unique flavor of liberation, and the most supreme flavor of the ultimate bliss of nirvana.

Now we have made wishes in regard to our tongues. Together, we, with utmost sincerity, prostrate to and take refuge in the world's most compassionate ones:

Again, we take refuge in the triple gems of all directions an all space. We pray that, through their kindness and compassion, they will help all sentient beings fulfilling their wishes and accomplishing their bodhi resolve (to attain enlightenment).

Making wishes in regard to our body

Next, we wish that, starting from now until enlightenment attained, everyone in today's dharma assembly, all sentient beings in the four forms of births and six paths of reincarnation will never feel the following sensation: delusive(?) touch of five desires, the sensation of boiling water, burning coal, or extreme coldness, the sensation of the hungry ghosts from their head being burned by fire, their mouth being poured with melted copper, the sensation of the animal's body being peeled and torn apart, the sensation of ones who are filled with suffering and afflictions and four hundred and four kinds of illness, the unbearable sensation of extreme hot and cold, the sensation from being bitten by various bugs like mosquitoes and fleas, or the sensation of being hurt by knives or sticks or being intoxicated, or the sensation of various sufferings from hunger, thirst, etc.

We wish that all sentient beings will always feel the sensation of wearing nice clothes from the heavens, the sensation of the natural sweet dews, the pleasant sensation of neither too cold nor too hot, the sensation of no starvation, no thirst, no illness, and no affliction, and no sensation of the pain from being hurt by knives or sticks.

May we always feel at ease in daily life and the sensation of no worries or fears, the sensation the gentle wind blown from Buddha' Purelands in the ten directions, the sensation of having cleansed our body and mind in the pond of seven treasures in the Buddhas' Pureland in the ten directions, the sensation of the freedom from the suffering of aging, sickness, and death, the sensation of being able to fly freely to listen the Dharma teaching with all the Bodhisattvas, and the sensation of realizing the true self with mastery in eight aspects when the Buddhas enter nirvana.

Now we have made our wishes in regard to our body. Together, we, with utmost sincerity, prostrate to and take refuge in the world's most compassionate ones:

Again, we take refuge in the triple gems of all directions and all space. We pray that, through their kindness and compassion, they will help all sentient beings fulfilling their wishes and accomplishing their bodhi resolve (to attain enlightenment).

Making the wishes in regard to our mind

Next, we wish that, starting from now until enlightenment attained, everyone in today's dharma assembly, all sentient beings in the four forms of births and six paths of reincarnation will always be aware of the problems related to greed, desires, anger, and ignorance, the problems related to killing, stealing, sexual misconduct, lying, excessive flattering, slandering, and harsh speech, be aware of the retribution of uninterrupted suffering resulted from killing one's father or mother, killing an Arhat, harming the Buddha's body, causing contention among the Sangha members, slandering about the Buddha, the Dharma, and the Sangha, and not believing the law of Cause and Effect. We wish that we will always believe in rebirth after one's death based on one's own actions, we will know to stay away from friends with bad influence or incorrect views and be friends with the benevolent ones with the right views, be aware that it's wrong to learn and accept the ninety-six kinds of non-Buddhist teaching, be aware that three kinds of outflows, five coverings, and ten kinds of entanglement are hindrances to practice, and be aware that we should be fearful with being born in the three realms to suffer the cycles of birth and death.

We wish that we will be aware that all sentient beings have Buddha-nature, that the Buddha is our compassionate father and a supreme doctor, that his teaching is the cure to the sickness of all sentient beings and all sages are the doctors attending to the sentient beings illness, be aware that all who have taken refuge in the Triple Gems should uphold the precepts, and practice the ten virtuous deeds and that these conducts can cause one to be reborn in the heavens or as a prestigious human being, be aware that without cultivating the seven expedient practices and added with the practice on the contemplating on the four noble truth, one cannot transcend the cycles of birth and death, be aware that one should practice to attain the state no-outflows (no affliction) and the sixteen minds (of eight tolerance and eight wisdom) through cultivating the sixteen aspects of the Four Noble Truths.

May we always be aware that realizing the Four Noble Truths being equal and without marks enables one to attain the four stages of fruition, that all forms of existence have common characteristics (like impermanence and lack of independent existence) and distinguishing characteristics (like the land is hard, water is wet, etc), that the twelve links of causes and conditions and the law of cause and effect cycle endlessly, and that we should practice the six perfections and the eighty thousands virtuous acts. May we be aware that we all be aware that we should eradicate the eighty-four thousands of afflictions, that the realization of non-arising will definitely lead us out of the cycles of birth and death, that the existence of the progressive ten unbinding among the fifty two stages of bodhisattva's practice, that through unobstructive (Vajra) resolve to eliminate the darkness of ignorance, we can attain the most supreme fruition of the Buddhahood and great Nirvana and completely accomplishing the all virtuous deeds and eliminating all offenses, and we understand the immeasurable merits, virtues, wisdom, and virtuous deeds of the ten powers, four types of fearlessness, eighteen different characters of a Buddha (as compared with all other beings in the Nine Realms) in the Buddha stage.

Now we have made our wishes in regard to our mind. Together, we, with utmost sincerity, prostrate to and take refuge in the world's most compassionate ones:

Again, we take refuge in the triple gems of all directions and all space. We pray that, through their kindness and compassion, they will help all sentient beings fulfilling their wishes and accomplishing their bodhi resolve (to attain enlightenment).

Making the wishes in regard to our speech

Next, we wish that, starting from now until enlightenment attained, everyone in today's dharma assembly, all sentient beings in the four forms of births and six paths of reincarnation will not speak of the Triple Gems disrespectfully or about the mistakes and offenses of the ones who expound the Dharma and will not say that good deeds do not bring good rewards and bad deeds yield no bad retributions. We will not say that there is no rebirth after our death and will not speak unbeneficial or harmful words about others. We will not proclaim the teaching and deviant views in the writing of the heterodox groups and will not encourage others to commit the ten bad karmas or the five heinous crimes. We will not speak of other's mistakes or offenses, involve ourselves in meaningless chatter or making fun of others, encourage others in believing in deviant teaching or evil spirits, judge other's good or bad looks, scold our parents, our seniors, and benevolent friends in anger, instruct others to commit crimes, or discourage or prevent others from doing good deeds.

We will always praise the Triple Gems and the merits and virtues of the ones who proclaim the Dharma and we will explain to others about the rewards and retributions from doing good and evil deeds. We will tell others about the fact that our consciousness continues after we die and we will only speak words that benefit other sentient beings. We will always speak about the Twelve Divisions of the Buddhist canon and that all sentient beings have the Buddha Nature to attain the permanent bliss and purification (of nirvana). We will always advise others to be filial to their parents, and respect their elders, to take refuge in the Triple Gems, uphold five precepts, conduct ten virtuous deeds, and practice the six contemplations. We will always praise the scriptures, speak of other's good conducts, and advise others to make friends with the benevolent and knowledgeable ones and to stay away from the ones with bad influence. We will always speak about the immeasurable merits and virtues of the ten abiding in the Buddha Stage and we will encourage others to cultivate Pureland practices which lead to attainment of the ultimate fruition (Buddhahood). We will always teach others to revere the Triple Gems, encourage them to sponsor or build the Buddha images (as pictures or statues) and to make offerings. We will always advise others that they should cultivate the various good deeds with the same sense of urgency as if they have to put out a fire on their head and persuade others to continually help the poor and the needy.

Now we have made our wishes in regard to our speech. Together, we, with utmost sincerity, prostrate to and take refuge in the world's most compassionate ones:

Again, we take refuge in the triple gems of all directions and all space. We pray that, through their kindness and compassion, they will help all sentient beings fulfilling their wishes and accomplishing their bodhi resolve (to attain enlightenment).

All Methods of Cultivation

Once again, we wish that all sentient beings in the four forms of birth and six paths of reincarnation in ten directions and in all realms, after making their wishes today, will practice completely all methods of cultivation: the practice of having deep faith in and being respectful to the Triple Gems; the practice of having solid faith without any doubts; the practice of diligently repenting for the elimination of the arising of evil intentions; the practice of remorse for purifying their thoughts; the practice of guarding physical deeds by not committing any offenses through their body, speech and mind; the practice of guarding their speech by not committing the four offenses by speech; the practice of calming their minds and purifying their intentions; the practice of bringing to accomplishment their bodhi resolve; the practice of compassion by not harming any living beings; the practice of compassionately advising others in accumulating meritorious deeds, the practice of not rejoicing in harming others; the practice of utmost sincerity by never deceiving or taking advantage of others; the practice of the Triple Gems for eradicating the three evil destinies; the practice of being truthful by never making or telling lies; the practice of preventing being harmed by never showing arrogance toward others; the practice of never hesitating; the practice of preventing disputes by stopping the thoughts of fighting and suing others; and the practice of impartiality to comply with the true dharma.

We also wish that all sentient beings will practice completely the following immeasurable methods of cultivation: the practice of the mind by observing their mind as illusion; the practice of observing the illusive nature of the mind to eliminate any unwholesome roots; the practice of gaining supernatural power so they can be at any place at will; the practice of deepening faith; the practice of resolving not to regress in their cultivation; the practice of contemplation on both the good and the bad; the practice of concentration to follow the path; the practice of growing the roots of wisdom by controlling the mind, staying on the right path; the practice of the power of faith by contemplating impermanence and emptiness; the practice of the power of diligence by overcoming the threat by the demons; the practice of the power of right thought and never forgetting; the practice of the power of concentration to eradicate delusive thoughts; the practice of entering enlightenment by continuous endeavors; the practice of right concentration by continuously practicing the Buddha path; the practice of eventually attaining Pure Nature and not dwelling in the other vehicles (of Arhats, Pratyekabuddhas, etc.).

We wish that all sentient beings will practice these eighty thousand methods of practice of the Bodhisattva and Mahasattvas and to purify the Buddha lands. We wish that they will persuade and transform their stinginess (in sharing wealth and knowledge) and enviousness and liberate the sentient beings in the evil destinies and with Eight Difficulties; embrace the ones who are argumentative and those with anger and hatred; and transform the indolent ones by encouraging them to cultivate good deeds diligently and to practice concentration to calm the mind with wandering thoughts.

Now that we have made our wishes, together, we, with utmost sincerity, prostrate to and take refuge in the world's most compassionate ones:

*[Get up and prostrate while chanting Buddha names:

Again, we take refuge in the triple gems of all directions and all space. We pray that, through their kindness and compassion, they will protect and embrace all sentient beings in the three realms and in the four forms of existence in six destinies and that, through today's repentance of compassion and enlightenment path, all our resolves and wishes will be accomplished and fulfilled and we will receive the merits, virtues, and wisdom and the power to be at any place at will.

Chapter 40: Our Sincere Requests

In today's Dharma assembly, we, who have common karma, together, have made wishes for all sentient beings of four kinds of birth in the six destinies and in the ten directions. Next, we like to request that all Bodhisattvas, through their kindness and compassion, will protect and embrace all such sentient beings. With the merits and virtues from today's repentance and resolves and with our thought of compassion, we wish that all sentient beings will joyfully seek the ultimate field of fortunes, truly believe that the rewards from making offerings to Buddha are countless, and mindfully follow the Buddha's example and attain the fruition of ultimate purity. May all sentient beings be very generous when making offering to the Buddhas; will cultivate the ultimate field of good fortunes in the Buddha's places, will go beyond the two vehicles and practice the way of bodhisattvas and obtain the Tathagata's ultimate liberation with the universal wisdom. Next, we wish that all sentient beings, will plant immeasurable good roots in the places of all Buddhas and accumulate the inexhaustible virtues and wisdoms; will practice and gain profound insight, the ultimate purification, and the most supreme wisdom; will gain the same supernatural power as the Buddhas, in that they can voyage freely in the universe at will without any difficulty; will follow the Great Vehicle and gain the boundless universal wisdom and they will abide in it forever. We wish that they will complete the first field of fortune and reach the state of omniscience (knowing all things); will never have antipathy against the Buddhas and will cultivate the virtuous deeds and joyfully seek the Buddha's wisdom; pilgrimage through all magnificent Buddha lands with various means, and will be able to enter all dharma realms in one thought. We wish that they can appear in countless manifestations throughout the worlds in the ten directions; manifest in vast bodies to be able to go anywhere freely; will have the supernatural power the Buddhas and adorn the ultimate other shore; and can exhibit the same supernatural power as the Tathagatas to be everywhere in all realms.

Now that we have made the above wishes, which are as vast the dharma nature and as ultimate as the empty space, we also wish that all sentient beings will be able to fulfill their wishes and accomplish their bodhi resolve (to attain enlightenment). Together, we, with utmost sincerity, prostrate to and request the following bodhisattvas (contained within the paragraph on page 37 of Chinese pinyin text) to help the sentient beings when we have to receive our own retribution and won't be able to help them.

Once again we request the Bodhisattvas of all realms in the ten directions to do the following. We request that the Bodhisattvas and Mahasattvas, through the power of their original vows liberate all sentient beings, and will embrace and receive the countless sentient beings in the ten directions. We request that they will not leave out any sentient beings and treat them as they are the benevolent and knowledgeable ones without discrimination. We wish that all sentient beings would appreciate the kindness of the Bodhisattvas and would follow and make offerings to them. We wish that the Bodhisattvas would mercifully embrace and receive all sentient beings and enable them to have the upright mind and follow the Bodhisattvas closely. We wish that all sentient beings would follow the Bodhisattva's teaching with joy and would not give rise to the thoughts of rebellion, would have the determination not to stay far away from the benevolent and knowledgeable ones; and leave all defilements behind. We request that the Bodhisattvas enable all sentient beings to rather sacrifice their own lives and everything they have for the sake of benevolent and knowledgeable ones and never disregard their teaching; to enable all sentient beings to cultivate the great compassion, stop all bad deeds, study the Buddha's true teaching, and put into practice; to enable all sentient beings to practice the same virtuous conducts as the bodhisattvas, bring forth the same resolves, attain the ultimate purity, possess the same spiritual powers to be at any place at will, follow the path of the great vehicle until they attain the ultimate universal wisdom, never be lazy in the course of this pursuit, ride the vehicle of the wisdom to reach the place of ease and calm, ride the vehicle of no-obstruction(?) and attain the ultimate self-mastery.

We like to transfer all the merit from the following to all sentient beings in all realms in the ten directions: taking refuge in the Triple Gems, removing all doubts and deepening our faith, sincerely repenting and bringing forth our resolves, revealing the retributions, being able to leave behind the retributions of being in the hells, resolving past resentments, joyfully making wishes, making transference of merits, and finally making requests (to the bodhisattvas).

We ask that the world honored Maitreya Buddha to be our witness and that the Buddha in ten directions will kindly sympathize and protect us from what we have repented, help us to fulfill our wishes. We wish (pray) that all sentient beings will be born in the land where the compassionate one was born and will be in the first assembly to listen to the Buddha's teaching, gain insight, and accomplish the same virtuous deeds and wisdom as the Bodhisattva's, enter the firm resolution (the mind of Vajra), and attain enlightenment.

The Praising of the Buddhas

The Buddha called "Duo Tuo A Qie Du, A Luo He, San Miao San Fo Tuo" has ten names and he has liberated countless sentient beings from the suffering of the cycles of birth and death. Through the merits and virtues from today's repentance and making reverence to the Buddha, we wish (pray) that all sentient beings would be able fulfill their wishes and the Bodhi resolve. The vows and wishes we made today are the same as those made by Buddhas in the ten directions and in all realms. Because the vows and wishes of the Buddha and Bodhisattvas are infinite so are our vows and wishes. These vows are vast as the dharma nature (all existence), as limitless as the empty space, as infinite in time as the time in the future. Because there will not be an end to the existence of the sentient beings, neither will there be an end to my vows. Because there is no end, the world will not cease to exist, neither will my vows be exhausted. Because there is no limit to the empty space, there will be no limit to my vows. Because the dharma nature will never cease to exist neither will my vows. Because the Nirvana will never cease to exist, neither will my vows. Because there is no end to the birth of the Buddha, neither will my vows. Because the Buddha's wisdom can never be exhausted, neither can my vows. Because there is no end to the mind and the conditions, neither are my vows. Because the arising of the wisdom will never stop, neither will my vows.

Because the worldly means, dharma means and the wisdom means to bring forth the goodness in the sentient beings cannot be exhausted, so my vows cannot be exhausted. My vows will only terminate when the above ten inexhaustible are exhausted.
